

Disqualifying Criteria for Police Dispatcher

Very few factors are automatically disqualifying. These are examples only. There may be other circumstances that could disqualify an applicant from the background process. Each incident is evaluated in terms of the circumstances and facts surrounding its occurrence and its degree of relevance to the position.

Please remember that many people have made mistakes in the past. The passage of time and recent history of responsible behavior or actions, may be taken into account and compensate for past indiscretions. It is advantageous for applicants to be completely forthright and truthful during the hiring process. Applicants have been disqualified in the background process as a result of dishonesty and/or purposely omitting information.
